My "level" of bird watching experience (as of this application): □ Beginner □ Intermediate □ Advanced

Note: Beginner = I like, feed, and notice birds, but I couldn't tell a Robin from a Finch. I call all gulls, "seagulls". (Aren't they?) Intermediate = I sometimes go looking for birds in order to identify new ones in my neighborhood, and while on vacation. I know some names of birds and can identify a few songs of birds. Advanced = I actively look for and notice birds. I can identify most common North American species by sight, and even know many by sound. I am on a life-long quest for new and exciting species. I am bonkers for birds!
